I knew about the resigning " to spend more time with family" part but the rest makes me really nervous. I know there's been talk by Josh of wanting to consolidate accounting departments, especially ILA. Josh is always of the mind set that if he asks internally for something to happen and it doesn't, he'll hire someone to do it for him, whether it's a consultant or maybe a new hire.

Agreed. There could be some reorganization scheme at play behind the scenes. But I don't know why they think ILA would just go along with it. 😊

Josh desperately wants to control them. It's his ultimate play to get Wayne's job and then he would control ILA. I sincerely hope that never happens. In the mean time, it's funny to watch him try.

Btw, I feel so out of touch because my computer is being worked on and IS changed my password sometime Friday afternoon so i haven't had email all weekend. Have I missed anything?

I don't think you've missed anything since Friday.

It's good for a new person to try to go after Chris. They will learn firsthand what Chris is really made of.

That's ironic about trying to control ILA through their accounting, though. The problems with c4 excessive spending aren't in ILA.

If there was any news/development about the banking over the weekend, I wouldn't have known about it (since I'm not in that loop). Not that I'm assuming either way but I hope you won't have some huge burden of emails when you're able to re-set your password tomorrow morning.

[REDACTED] Emily Cummins 3/18/2018 8:42:13 PM

I doubt I've missed anything but one never knows. And yes everyone knows where the spending problem is, but that is untouchable and the real reason behind the need for control.
